ELKS' PRESENT ANNUAL BENEFIT SHOW TONIGHT

If there is one detail of arrangement, for the first performance of the Elks' annual show at the Alhambra theater tonight, which has not received full attention, that detail could not be discovered when Director C. H. Lewis and members of the show committee gave their preparations a final once over late this afternoon. The final rehearsal for "A Night in a Cabaret" was held on the stage of the Alhambra Sunday afternoon.

"The best organization of professional amateurs that I ever worked with," was the decision of Director Lewis when he stepped down from a chair in the orchestra pit after the last bar of the finale. "If this bunch fails to put over this show big tomorrow night it will be the biggest surprise I ever had in my young life," continued the little manager. At the conclusion of the rehearsal every member of the big cast of eighty people was confident that he or she would not be the one to fall down.

Judge J. A. Howell went through without a shake or a quiver and he made a terrible amount of responsibility on his hands this year for as manager of the cabaret he must naturally be the mainspring of the whole affair. The programme as outlined when Director Lewis started rehearsals was rather too long and as a result several mighty good numbers have been cut out. The idea is to have a good show, a snappy show, sufficiently long to furnish an evening's entertainment but above all things not too long. The assurance is given that the audience will be out of the theatre by 11 o'clock.

WM. SCHANSENBACH IS CALLED BY DEATH AT AGE OF 82

William Schansenbach, a most lovable character, Ogden's business world for more than thirty years, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kiesel, 743 Twenty-fifth street, at 11:45 o'clock this morning. He was 82 years old, but until about three weeks ago seemed to be enjoying good health. Last Wednesday he left his desk in the office of the Fred J. Kiesel company in the Colonel Hudson building, and shortly after his arrival home was taken seriously ill. He declined from that time on, growing weaker each day, and passed away this morning, with his daughter, Mrs. C. H. Bowman of Butte, Mont., at his bedside.

Mr. Schansenbach was born in Ludwigsburg, Wurttemberg, Germany, October 30, 1835. In the year 1855 he left his native land for America and located in Toledo, Ohio. He was married to Miss Lina Klemm in that city in November, 1872, and in the spring of 1882, with his wife and daughter, he came to Ogden. Since that time he had resided in this city continuously, being associated with Fred J. Kiesel. His surviving relatives are his daughter, Mrs. C. H. Bowman, four grandchildren, two sisters, Mrs. Albert Kiesel and Mrs. Fred J. Kiesel of Ogden and three sisters in Germany.

The funeral announcements will be made later.

JUNE ELVIDGE, ROBERT WARWICK, DORIS KENYON

"I'll give you everything you want—a finely furnished apartment, pretty dresses and hats and a motor car," said Driscoll, the famous movie star, to Mary Baker, the romantic little country girl who had followed Driscoll to the motion picture studio.

The girl said that she would accept the offer. Driscoll arranged a party for her in her apartment the first night she was to spend in her new quarters.

This is one of the dramatic climaxes in "A Girl's Folly," the latest World picture, Brady-made, which with Robert Warwick and Doris Kenyon as the stars, will be seen at the Utah theatre today, tomorrow and Wednesday. This photoplay is a romance of the world of motion pictures. To say that it is unique and different is putting it mildly. You'll enjoy it thoroughly.—Advertisement.

FRED W. KIESEL IS TO AID EXPOSITION

Due to the inability of Hon. Fred J. Kiesel to depart for California today as had been expected, his son, Fred W. Kiesel of Sacramento, was delegated by telegraph, to act as a special messenger of Governor Simon Bamberger, in extending to California an invitation to participate in the Golden Spike Jubilee to be held in Ogden in 1919. Mr. Kiesel will present the invitation to the California state legislature, now in session.

GRAND JURY INSTRUCTED TO INVESTIGATE CRIMES COMMITTED BY LIBERTINES

Weber county's second grand jury since statehood was organized this morning at 10:30 o'clock and charged by Judge Alfred W. Agee of the district court. Below are given the names, business and addresses of the grand-jurors:

William B. Lake, foreman, carpenter, Harrisville road.
John S. Daniels, secretary and treasurer of the Retail Merchants association, grocer, 2528 Washington avenue.
Harold S. Evans, grocer, secretary of T. B. Evans and company, 2364 Washington avenue.
Charles Gil Parker, merchant and postmaster at Hooper.
John Jenkins, freight-house foreman Ogden Union Railway & Depot company, residing at 121 Twenty-seventh street.

William Royle, 3650 Adams avenue, formerly a carpenter in the railroad shops.

George A. Moyes, farmer, Plain City.
John Childs of Roy was the eighth man, but he was excused because of illness, on a doctor's certificate.
The seven men are three grocers, two carpenters, one farmer and one railroad workman.

Judge Agee's Charge.
District Judge Alfred W. Agee's charge to the jury was at times dramatic. His voice was clear and strong, and it rang like a clarion when he said:

"I also call your attention to the frequency of reports in the public press of crimes committed against young girls, and for which the guilty persons receive but a punishment, or grossly inadequate punishment, and urge upon you that you carefully inquire into all charges of pandering or prostitution and the conduct of places of ill-repute, and especially as to these crimes committed against young girls."

"Ogden and Weber county must be made a perfectly safe place for any man's wife or daughter at all times. I can conceive of no higher duty upon your part, and upon the part of the officers charged with the enforcement and administration of the laws than that of protecting women and girls of the county from offenses committed against them by libertines, some of whom infect every community."

Hits Hard at Gamblers.

"It is a matter of current topic in this city," said the judge, "that divers persons have for years been conducting gambling houses at divers places within this city, and in buildings and houses rented from others, where persons congregate and engage in gambling in violation of the laws of the State and the ordinances of the city, and when arrested for the violation of such ordinances, they have been allowed to deposit a sum of money in lieu of bail, which money they have forfeited and then have not been prosecuted, so that this method of depositing money in lieu of bail, which is forfeited in this manner, is in effect the payment of a license fee to the city for the privilege of gambling or conducting gambling houses or gambling games within the city."

Cites Chicago Exposures.
"This practice, more than anything else, has brought about conditions such as have recently been exposed in Chicago, and in many other cities in this country, whereby persons engaged in criminal practices, instead of being prosecuted and punished, have for a price been permitted to continue their crimes under protection of the municipal authorities."

"No officer is above the law. No officer whose duty it is to apprehend and prosecute persons guilty of a violation of the law, has any right to arbitrarily refuse or to neglect to do so, or to determine whether such persons shall be punished, or what their punishment shall be. The courts alone have the right to determine these questions, and in accordance with the laws, and after the accused have had a fair and impartial trial according to law."

Property Owners Guilty.
After reading in detail the anti-gambling laws, Judge Agee said: "The person who knowingly permits gambling to be carried on in any house owned or rented by such person in whole or in part is equally guilty with the person who engages in gambling therein."

The court emphasized the law that every officer, high and low, who knows of such violations and fails to inform against the criminals and prosecute them, or who "winks at" such violations is guilty of a misdemeanor.

First Specific Charge.
Judge Agee's first specific charge concerning crime was a demand for the indictment of any public officer who has charged or received for any service rendered any greater amount than is prescribed by law for such service. He quoted this law, which says the offender "shall forfeit to the person aggrieved the amount thereof (overpaid) and $25 as damages and shall pay costs of suit."

Furthermore, the judge said: "Every wilful omission to perform any duty enjoined by law upon any public officer, or person holding any public trust or employment, is punishable as a misdemeanor."

Illegal Liquor Selling.
"I also urge upon you," said the court, "a careful investigation of charges of illegal sales, or of other illegal disposition, of intoxicating liquors, or other violations of the laws on this subject in this county. The man or men who pay for and obtain a license to sell intoxicating liquors and who, in good faith, conduct the business in accordance with the law, as well as the public, are entitled to protection against the acts of a man, men, or association of persons who sell intoxicating liquors without obtaining a license, or who sell during prohibited hours, or to persons to whom sale may not legally be made."

Asks Pool Hall Inquiry.
"I also recommend that you carefully inquire into the manner in which pool halls are conducted within this city, and as to whether minors within the prohibited age are allowed to frequent and remain in such places, and whether gambling in any form is carried on, or permitted in such places, and whether liquors are illegally sold or furnished therein."

Strikes at Blackmail.
For some reason known only to the judge, he included in his charge a specific reference to blackmailing, as follows:

"Section 4286 of the compiled laws of this state provides that any person who obtains money or property from another with his consent, induced by a wrongful use of force or fear, induced by threatening to accuse such other person or any relative of his, or any member of his family, of any crime, is guilty of extortion, and if you have reason to believe that any officer or other person has obtained any money or property from another by putting such person in fear by threatening to accuse him of a crime, it will be your duty to thoroughly investigate the matter and take such action as the evidence may justify."

"So far as it lies within my power to prevent it," said Judge Agee, "I am determined there shall be no winking at violations of law, or compromising or temporizing with crime, and I earnestly invoke your aid, and the aid and assistance of every good citizen, in this matter."

"While it is your duty to investigate all infractions of the law, I urge that you do not allow your attention to be diverted from the vital questions that affect the morals and welfare of the community, and which tend to pervert justice, by any side issues of much less importance."

"Let me admonish you to conduct all your investigations and examinations impartially and without any bias or prejudice whatever, and without fear of or favor to anyone."

The same rules and standards should be applied to all persons, without regard to their wealth or poverty, or their influence or lack of influence."

The court instructed the jury in detail concerning the legal necessity of absolute secrecy and charged that any juror should report immediately any attempt by anyone to approach him or discuss any subject coming before the jury.

At the morning session of the House of Representatives, the rules were adopted and a joint resolution, of McKinney, condemning the actions of the minority faction in the United States Senate in blocking the armed neutrality bill sponsored by President Woodrow Wilson. Copies of the resolution were ordered printed and mailed to the senators concerned in the filibuster.

House Bill No. 130 (Southwick) providing for the suppression of the sale of cigarettes in the state, was reconsidered and killed. H. B. No. 110 (Greenwood) providing for a consolidation of the state health departments met a like fate. H. B. No. 157 (Raleigh) eliminating from the state road board the representatives from the state university and state agricultural college and substituting the attorney general and state auditor, was passed. H. B. No. 138 (Boydton), providing for a state board of control to work as a central purchasing committee for all state institutions, was passed. H. B. No. 141 (Allen), providing a special law to cover confidence games, making them a felony, was passed.

Following the session, a caucus was held on the question of reviving the income tax bill killed by the state senate Saturday. This ended with the representatives present splitting "fifty-fifty" on the proposition, despite strenuous efforts on the part of Rep. Page of Salt Lake and his followers to have the bill brought to life and made into a law.

Theatres

AT THE ALHAMBRA.
"Money's worth, several times over," said a lady last night, leaving the Alhambra theater, after seeing "The Fortunes of Fifi," a superb 7,000-foot comedy; "Happy Hooligan and His Kids," a merry matrimonial comedy, and, for good measure and running over, some thrilling scenes of the West starring the genuine Blackfoot Indians.

The large audience was kept spell-bound by the true-to-life acting of Marguerite Clark. Her main support in the roles of Cartouche, hero of Lodi, and Napoleon the Great—one of the finest Napoleons ever produced—was adequate and pleasing.

The "Fortunes of Fifi" is a brilliant, high class comedy, so pleasing throughout as to evoke last night spontaneous laughter and applause.

Excepting Marguerite Clark, Cartouche and Napoleon, the greatest actor in the play is Toto, a dainty little poodle-dog, Fifi's beloved pet, that smiles like a human and performs some wonderfully intelligent stunts. Every appearance of the dog was the signal last night for an outburst of ecstatic laughter and infantile applause from somebody's two-year-old baby in the audience. The baby endured the dog and shrieked in delight while the marvelous little canine was performing.

There isn't a dull moment in this comedy, which will be repeated at the matinee today and tomorrow, 2 to 6 o'clock.

"Happy Hooligan" is another matinee feature, with Happy in a story-telling role. It is a scream from start to finish.

The Blackfoot scenes are above average, in which the genuine Indians are shown at their favorite gambling games and in their ludicrous festival dances.

Mrs. Myrtle B. Hixley delighted the audience with several soprano solos. The musical program throughout was excellent.

MASS MEETING OF CITIZENS WILL BE HELD AT THE COUNTY COURT HOUSE FRIDAY NIGHT

To All Citizens of Ogden:
A mass meeting of the citizens and taxpayers of Ogden City is hereby called to take place at the county court house, in the court room of District Judge Alfred W. Agee, on Friday night, March 9th, at 8 o'clock, to consider the advisability of organizing a permanent league to safeguard the rights of all citizens and see that they get a square deal, and for the general purpose of assisting in the upbuilding of Ogden City and the State of Utah. Prominent citizens will attend to address the meeting. The undersigned committee on preliminary arrangements was appointed recently at a mass meeting at the city hall. (Signed.)

JOHN F. SNEDAKER,
EARL R. GEIGER,
D. C. STEWART,
GEORGE LOCKHEAD, JR.,
R. A. NORRIS,
GEORGE B. WARDLAW.
Every Citizen Invited.

The name generally agreed upon for the proposed organization is the Utah Taxpayers Vigilance League. Public-spirited citizens, besides the committee, interested in the proposition, express themselves in favor of a real organization, with a constitution and by-laws and a full list of officers, standing and special committee.

According to tentative plans, every citizen will be eligible to membership, but every member will be required to take an obligation of loyalty to the general purposes of the league. The aim is to have a membership which will get results. Anything affecting the welfare of the public will be a proper topic of discussion and investigation by the league.

To Make Use of Ballot.

Recognizing the fact that municipal progress requires the intelligent use of the ballot, many of the promoters of the league state that the constitution will include provisions for political action and for united action, when necessary, to enforce the public will when officials fail to perform their duties and make good their campaign pledges.

The committee's attention was called to the fact that improvement organizations and citizens' committees, formed and operating in this systematic manner, have been the source of great good in practically all of the progressive cities of the country; that prosperity and progress were given great impetus especially in Los Angeles, Seattle, Tacoma, Denver, Dallas, Houston, Cleveland, Dayton and scores of other cities where the common people rule.

Women are expected to make their influence felt through the proposed league, the committeemen said, and a large attendance of women is desired at the mass meeting.

Prompt Action is Desired.
It is the expressed hope of the committee that the Friday night meeting will be conclusive, that the plan of organization may be speedily agreed upon and the officers elected and committees named.

Several prominent citizens have given assurances through The Standard (not for publication) that while they may not deem it expedient to join the organization, or publicly take part in its work, they would be pleased to contribute generously to the league's treasury, believing that through such an organization great good may come for all the people.

The committee's motto for the proposed league is a translation of Virgil: "The noblest motive is the public good."

To Prevent Clique Rule.
Earl R. Geiger and other members of the committee stated today that the plan to be proposed for the league will be designed to prevent clique rule in municipal politics, and safeguards will be established constitutionally so that the league itself may not become prostituted to the uses of base politicians.

The call for the mass meeting, the committeemen say, is really the voice of nine-tenths of the best people of Ogden, who realize the power of unity in all matters affecting the public good.

The avowed object of the league is to establish the square deal in municipal government and to advance by honest and common-sense methods all kinds of public improvement.
